3) Orientation (24th August,17)-

ASSETS-DTU Orientation saw an enthusiastic crowd turn up to learn more about the only finance and economics society in college. A 30 minute orientation session was followed by recruitment interviews out of which total of 40 students were shortlisted.

4) Internal Activities-

- REGULAR CLASSES WITH FUN ACTIVITIES: Weekly classes on basics of accounting skills (analyzing accounting records, computing taxes, developing budgets, providing auditing services and even giving financial advice) and stock market trading with a special DMAT account of the society for trading purposes (valuation of stocks using EBITDA, when to buy and sell stocks , index trading, reading balance sheets and financial statements, basics of mergers and acquisitions, gauging market sentiment).
- NEWS UPDATE: Regular updating of stock market news on various social media platforms so that students stay connected to the market changes and cash inflow-outflow structures of the real world, and attain that generally prevailing attitude of investors as to anticipate price development in a stock market.

- QUIZZES AND ESSAYS: This includes various competitions including financial wizard quiz and essay writing competitions to celebrate financial literacy week.
- MOCK STOCKS: A mock stock exchange event is basically buying and selling stocks without using money, by using chips, pretend funds, or even points instead of real investment capital. When one starts trading in the stock market, there are many common blunders committed by beginners. Using a mock stock exchange will allow one to trade without any risks, so that one gets the market and trading experience one wants without involving money in the process. These are also frequently called trading simulations, because one gets all of the benefits but none of the risks. We organised intra-society mock-stock competitions to inculcate the strong basics of trading and investing and understand market sentiments and also send in our delegation of students for various mock stocks competitions to other colleges and universities in Delhi.
